

“Since you asked, to get rid of Squirrels”

The Citizen.com

Submitted by Richard Hobbs on Tue, 05/30/2006 - 11:14pm.

As I said, I tried everything, so I googled and googled, until I found something that I knew was out there.

Something that would make them leave without having to kill the damn things.

So what could that be? A high pitched siren, might bother my dogs, and again, it didn't work before. So what could do it.....? Okay, you've waited long enough.

It was a round "strobe light" called the squirrel evictor. I found it on several websites, I hung it in the attic, and 175,000 candle watts started flashing. It about drove me crazy.

The squirrels never returned, and the ad claims it could take 72 hours. Well it said to leave it there for a month, then close the holes and you will then be squirrel free, in my case they left in five minutes. So I'm in week 3 and no squirrels yet, and trust me, I had a nest of about a dozen, or at least it sounded like that many.

Oh, and I don't sell them. Oh, the ad for it says, "this old house" featured it too, so that was good enough for me.

Oh, and no lights blink under my soffits. I looked for that too.

Hope it helps you.

Now to find a nice outdoor stereo system for my pool area. Any ideas?